The Red Bulletin January, 2015 * 100 Pages Winter is coming. But is it really? Last years snow pummeled the northeast and south, and brought some lovely powder days to the mountain states. But resorts in California and the southwest looked like rock gardens. Well, El Nino is back, which means our Alaskan friends wont rejoice as much, but the lower 48 (especially on the west side) will. And so our winter travel guide on page 60 comes at the right time. Expert advice on where to ski, snowshoe, snowmobile and party on Americas top mountains. For those looking for an icy guarantee, theres always Antarctica and its perpetual snowfields (page 34). But those require a boat and some solid insider info (hint: dont hop on just any floating iceberg). Enjoy the break and go get some.
